“ I have many memories of Andrew. We were friends for 16 years. I still can't believe that he is gone. We have had many laughs and good times, and have helped each other through some tough times. I had my kids, and nieces calling him "drew-fus" and I know that drove him nuts. Lol There were times when we wouldn't speak for long periods of time but once we would speak again it was like we just talked the day before. He would drive me crazy when he would make up stories that he knew would make me frustrated and it would end up being a story that he just made up for the sole reason of frustrating me. Then out of nowhere he would start laughing really hard so I would know that he was lying and then ask why I was so angry. With that same token, I would give him a hard time and get him frustrated because I would laugh at him and he would put his head down, look at me through the corner of his eye, and start scratching his head and yell "I'm so mad right now!" As he walked away from me. He was such a good friend. I was so thankful that we got more time with him since he was fighting for his life a few years back. We didn't get to talk much but I am thankful that we never completely lost communication. I can gladly say that I have many memories to keep him close at heart.

“ My uncle Andrew you're going to be extremely missed! It's still doesn't feel real that he's gone. He was taken from us too soon but fought hard and is now at peace. There's so many things he did for me personally growing up, I can't even name all the things he's done for me I'll be forever thankful, I always thought of him more as an older brother. We practically grew up together if you know you know... He was always there to protect me. Uncle Andrew was so funny he always made everybody laugh that was in the same room as him, he just knew how to make people smile he was so sweet. He also listened very well, you can talk to him about anything, he was very trustworthy and showed that he truly cared. He was also very bossy, goofy, silly and sometimes mean and blunt. It hurts knowing such an amazing human being is no longer upon us but let the memories you have with him stay with you forever. A toast to you Uncle Drew 🍷 for always keeping it real and being awesome and you'll stay treasured in my heart, forever you'll stay, until we meet again someday!
