“ Uncle Alex will always be remembered for making sure the kids were allowed to be kids, if the kids were eating he would make sure they made a big mess of themselves, then get up saying "I'm out of here, laughing and saying see ya", as he's walking out the door. Then if the kids were playing in the dirt he would give them the water to make mud and he would enjoy every minute of it. One day we were in springs and we went to a little Bistro downtown, he asks my daughter if she wanted an ice cream, I said do you want an ice cream? He says, no, I can't have it. I said I know but you can have the lemon ice, he says no, there is dairy in that, I said no, it's ice and lemon. He didn't believe me and went up and asked the lady as I was ordering it if there was dairy, she says no it's ice and lemon flavoring, he says okay. He was very skeptical about eating it but when he did, he loved and he says, "Man that is good, thank you". That was just so funny, I will never forget that.

“ Will miss you you brother at work. You were always happy and cheerful even with what was going on. You wanted to work even more than taking the time to get well and enjoy the little things. Miss talking about music, cars, and movies. I hope you got to do some of those bucket lists we talked about and can now be in peace and enjoy what transpires in the next life. Wish your family well for their loss. R.I.P. Alex.
