“ I'm writing this for Larry King who was best friends with John for about 60 years.

*He said: We shared many great times together throughout the years. We both went to school together, and played football, and worked at Hewlett-Packard until John retired. We both enjoyed camping, playing tennis and just hanging out. My craziest memory with John was in high school. On our first day of summer break, going into our Junior year of high school, we and 2 other friends, decided to shave our heads for fun. (actually, John came up with the idea). Thinking that our hair would grow back to normal length by the end of the summer, well, IT DIDN'T. The four of us also went to church on Sunday, walked in together, and sat in the front row. We got a lot of looks from the congregation and the Priest got a big kick out of that and smiled at us. Back then, no one ever shaved their heads just for fun!! Now, that was one story I treasured, and haven't forgotten!!*

*I WILL GREATLY MISS MY FRIEND!! Larry King***
