“ It’s only been a week, but I miss you more than ever. I’m grateful you’re no longer in pain and free of this cancer, but it still hurts that you’re gone. I miss our afternoon phone calls to just talk about life, you really were my best friend. I miss your stubborn attitude and the way you would brag to me if you had sushi that day or our FaceTime calls that we would start with funny faces. Life is going to be different without you, thankfully you have me two brothers that have my back through anything and I know we will be alright. I love you dad. Say hello to mom, grandma, and grandpa for me, I truly do have the best guardian angels looking over me
