“ To all of you who think it is appropriate to talk vile and bash Roy on my dead brothers obituary page need to check yourselves. Those of you who write big words, as if you had the ability to back them up, about what a POS Roy is I wish you could be in the cell with him for 5 minutes and run your big fat mouth! You know you would curl up in the fetal position and cry like a little girl! And the rest of you if you don't have anything worthy to say about my deceased brother then just keep your mouth shut!

I say your brother Ray on lock up extended stay. I have to admit, he's a very tough guy on the outside, has has a gentle spirit about him. I was very happy to see him get out and doing well. He seemed to be so happy. He brought tears to my eyes. R. I.P honey.

I was just watching the show Lockup and saw the piece on Ray and Roy. I was so rooting for them being out of prison and staying out. I wanted them to have the life they so much wanted ...,smiling and happy. Then Roy was back in and Ray was out and my heart saddened. But seeing Ray's smile and happiness just being free and the ability to be with his family warmed my heart . So saddened to hear of his passing and my condolences to all his family. I'm so happy he was able to have time with those he loved and didn't pass away in jail Love to all of you 🧡

People are always going to be jerks and unfortunately that's just human nature. I didn't know your brother outside of Lockup but I'm a good judge of character. He made mistakes and did his time. My heart goes out to his daughter most of all because I can relate to Dad not being there and the emotional baggage that brings. May you, your family and Ray have peace.

*Brad, I am so sorry that rotten people find it acceptable to speak poorly about ANYONE on a remembrance page. The has shut parenting and it shows! I don't know yours brothers and can only form an opinion from the Lockup show and since that was about 5 minutes of their lives I can only say I enjoyed their interviews. I am so very sorry for your families loss. Roy back in prison is heartbreaking but T with how horrible or corrections system is I'm sadly not surprised. People my sister (manslaughter) included come out with zero coping skills and a society that deems them disposable. Blessing to you and yours sir.

It's very Sad that this was created to post memories and condolences and it's being used to chastise and judge people alive and deceased. Let he who is without sin cast the first stone..... I know I won't be throwing any!! God Blesses everyone and forgives their sins no matter how big or small. Please show compassion to fellow man and women and if you don't have anything nice to say about anyone or anything then say nothing at all. God bless you all!!

Jane Couper - June 05, 2024 at 10:52 PM

I cried when I read the print at the end of Ray's story on television. He had finally gotten out and was so looking forward to a life with his daughter and granddaughter. No doubt he had many insecurities about himself and his life and probably used some drugs to cope. I don't understand why they had to throw him back in prison. I do know that we have no right to judge Ray and I would like to send my condolences to his Mom and Dad, his daughter and granddaughter and the rest of the people who tried to help Ray and I pray that his brother Roy has the help he needs to survive and his family does not give up on him. If more people would try to understand what someone is going through and try to help them the world would be a much better place. Someday you might be the person who needs some help.

I just watched it tonight on MSNBC too. That is awful. I agree, seemed like genuine good people. So sad because they both had wonderful personalities. I hope Roy is doing well and staying out of trouble. I agree, he (Roy) is hardcore. I have never seen anything like it. I agree with the terminator analogy. Take care.

Angela - June 16, 2019 at 02:25 AM

Prayers up for you Roy... wishing you and your family nothing but the best. I was heartbroken tonight hearing about your brothers passing. He was full of so much life and ambition, and so are you. Be the best you can be for yourself and your brother, live life to the fullest and surround yourself around positivity. The system is broken.. and there's a lot that needs to be done to create better stability for anyone transitioning from certain areas in life to ensure that they are as stable and taken care of as possible. Im a college student majoring in Forensic Psychology and I promise to work hard and leave positive energy with everyone I meet/help. And I promise to always fight/advocate for peoples rights and changing things for the better. Again, God bless you and I'm wishing all the best for you.

I want to find the right words to express my deepest condolences to Ray's daughter and granddaughter, and the entire family. My older brother did 18 years, and it was very difficult to see the brother I was best friends with growing up, so defeated and changed by prison. He got released 15 years ago and never went back. I'm thankful for that. Ray had a great attitude and a huge heart. He would have made it on the outside, and he touched many lives. Rest peacefully, you deserve it.

I hate that Ray's gone, and feel for Roy as well. My grandpa was a twin and when his brother died he was incomplete. Its hard enough to lose a brother, but to lose an identical twin is even worse. One thing that can be said is that Ray died a free man as there no doubt he would have wanted.

“ It matters not how Ray died, but the love and memories shared by his friends and family will live on. I saw a man who through his adversity didn't allow his spirit to be broken. We all fall short from the glory of God, but how many of us still let our light shine and keep a smile on our faces as Ray did? Soar high Ray, you are truly free forever. May your light and spirit continue to shine through your family.

“ My condolences. Ray spoke to me in the way he really had a fire in his eyes to do better for his daughter. I felt a good soul from that man. He deserved much More time on earth than he was allowed. God bless you rayven and your family. You stay strong, I never saw a man on that show quite as inspirational as your father. -a tv viewer of your father's story from Thornton, CO. -jason Pace

“ I'm so sorry to hear about Ray. I just finished watching Lockup and saw the credits at the end saying he had passed. It made me happy to see him get out and I just knew he would succeed. I hoped for it and felt he deserved it. I don't know what else to say. I'm praying Roy can get out soon to be with family and grieve for his brother.

“ Oh my gosh.. I am so sad.. I had no idea Ray passed away, A year ago.. It's crazy how it came about that I came to know this a few mins ago.. I'm out with my husband at a local club we are members at. I looked to my right over and over and told my husband. That looks just like the guy.. the twins Ray and Roy Slagle from lock up.. he agreed so it prompted me to google Ray.. I had no idea and I'm so sorry to hear this..he touched my heart with his kind heart and desire to make it outside of prison. I so prayed for his daughter and grandchild that things would work out for them all together. My heart goes out to his family.. and I haven't read any info on Roy yet... I pray he is ok.. and doing well with his life. RIP Ray... you hold a special place in my mind and heart.

My brother Roy is good, he is and was unfortunately incarcerated at the time of Rays passing. He see parole board in about three weeks, please keep him in prayer as he has not been in an environment that allows for proper grieving.

“ I feel so sad for Rayven, I just watched lock up and before knowing the outcome I was wishing and hoping for him to make it. I thought he was such a nice and sensitive guy. This made me cry to find out that he died. I wish you luck Rayven in all you do. I hope his brother makes it as well. I am gonna look him up to see where he is at - Again, I am so sorry I hope you all have a Merry Christmas. I am sure Ray is in heaven he had a kind soul.

I don't know you but I would have liked to, you seem like a likable kinda guy. I only know about you from watching locked up... that's just the side of you that helped you survive all those years you were down... and now I never will. I pray for you.. your family and friends.. all those that held you dear.. I pray God bless your family with the strength needed to live on without you.. that He touch their hearts with love and grace.. in Jesus name from Detroit

“ He had an amazing heart and spirit, you could see it, and feel it through his time on lock up. I am so incredibly sorry for your loss. It is so hard for people to adjust to life on the outside, and you could see his good intentions. My best friend has been in orison since 1999 did something he literally did not do, I watch A lot of these shows, but he really tugged at my heart strings...love and Healing light to all of you!!!!
