“ We went to high school together. He was my best friend then he joined the services and we talked here and there . He called me the day before and I didn't answer . I said I'll call you this weekend . I never got a chance to call him...

“ Tim and I met through a Facebook singles page. For us, it was an instant connection. The first day we met in person, we couldn't stop touching each other and smiling like idiots. I will miss seeing his smile, hearing his laugh and cooking long meals together.

“ Fleenor and I met in Germany while he was in the army. He was on my maintenance team for the Abrams Main Battle Tank. We deployed to Iraq during OIF 4 years 2006-2007. He was a great soldier. And one of the best mechanics I had ever worked with. The night before we had movement to our deployment I sat with him in his room. He was understandably a bit nervous since it was his first time. I let him know it's okay to be nervous about it. Then we talked and let each other know we would do our best to watch out for each other. As normal, life happened and after I left Germany we occasionally would lose contact but always got back to making contact again. I am happy that I was able to meet him as a soldier, as a friend and as a brother. But I am heartbroken that we won't be able to make contact again like before. Rest in peace my brother. You are and will be missed.

“ *Tim,
May you rest in peace brother. You will never be forgotten. I'm seriously going to miss you bro. So many memories with this amazing man and I wish we could have made more. He was an amazing person to be around. There was never a dull moment with Tim. Deploying with him to Iraq was probably one of the most memorable things I could have done with him and I tell you what. The stories/memories we shared and the brotherhood we built will always be deeply appreciated.*

“ Tim aka "Fleebag" was an unexpected friend of mine that I met only this last year, we both were regulars in our little circle of the internet and talked all the time about music, life, games, and just about anything. Very quickly we became friends and even quicker than that I realized that there aren't many out there like Tim. Honest, understanding, and above all more empathetic than 99% of us out there. People like him just seem tapped into a level of consciousness and understanding of life and love that many of us aren't tapped into. Truly a remarkable soul and I will cherish our conversations forever. He was an avid supporter of me and our other internet friends and it's a shame we weren't able to meet face to face before his passing. Best wishes to his family in this difficult time. I know just from our talks alone how much you all meant to him. I'll miss you buddy. <3
