“ Yader, lo conoci cuando era parte de una quinceañã. Él se sentaba en el piso y se burlaba de todos los que hacian su parte mal. Le decia yo a Yader que les enseñara y de payaso, se paraba y comenzaba hacer la parte correcta. Pues casi al final del ensayo, uno de los chambelanes se tuvo que salir y pues Yader tomo su parte. Se veia bien chulo en su traje y pues todo salio muy bien. A un tiempo despues de eso tuve que ir a la escuela que estaba asistiendo Yader. Me vio y bajo la mirada y me dijo, "sabe casi que la veo a usted como mi Madre, solo porque me regaña cada ratito. Lo abrase y lo regañe ese dia. Cuando ya me iba, me dijo, no se crea, jajaja, pero ya no me regañe tanto."Lo abrase de nuevo y me fui. Despues lo veia de vez en cuando pero nunca me olvido de Ti Mijo. Tienes una gran parte de mi Corazon, Mijo. Siempre que escucho una cancion que te gustaba y andaba de moda cuando te conoci, me acuerdo de ti. Nunca me hubiera despegado de tu lado, Mijo. Hasta Pronto Yader.

“ I remember Yader arriving from El Salvador as a frightened young man. He was sent to live with Evelyn to keep him safe from the turmoil of surrounding him in his home Country. Learning English! Making Friends! Feeling lost in a new country were his challenges! I loved his gentleness and openness to learning new things as he matured and accepted the reality of being in the United States. He was a precious young man, taken too soon from us. Peace my young friend! You left a joyful place in my Heart! Sister Nancy
